Dear Directors,

Achieving Health and Blissful Wellbeing with the Essence of Yoga -a Modern Day Magic

The Covid Pandemic has increased student stress and anxiety levels to record highs and with no cure in sight it is further adding to the pressure of academic performance, financial issues, and worries of future job prospects.

Lifestyle changes during the pandemic have reduced our physical movements and increased mental stress. Yoga is a sustainable practice and a holistic health option that everyone could access and help improve mental health, Vitality, and boost immunity naturally.

Symbiosis Centre of Yoga (SCY) brings to the students, faculty and staff of Symbiosis – simple yoga practices for joy, peace, wellbeing, success and more. The objective of the sessions is to render them to explore their highest potential through powerful processes of self-transformation, essence of classical yoga, and meditations to address key aspects of life.

Requesting the institutes to include a session of Basic Yoga Online during the induction so that if interested, the students could participate in online Yoga classes throughout the year.

Mr. Kishor Pawar, Supervisor, SCY will be the point of contact for this activity. In case of any query you may reach him on - 8275473781/ email kishor.pawar@scy.edu.in.

DRISHTIKON-GROUP DISCUSSION

-Himani Deshmukh

In December, Team Drishtikon organized their fourth module– Group Discussion. Group discussion is a method companies, or organizations use to check whether the candidates have certain personalities or skills that are a must for their members or employees. Group discussion refers to exchanging ideas on a primary issue or topic on a single platform. The session began with the team explaining how we often tend to make mistakes unintentionally when it comes to group discussion. The session proceeded with the team presenting a play wherein they highlighted a few errors students usually made during group discussion and gave tips. First and foremost is an open–ended start. Whosoever plays the role of the beginner needs to make sure to set the premise for the topic or bring the subject in motion.

The beginner needs to make sure that they don't give their viewpoint directly but build around the topic a little. After that, that person should put forward their views and not have an open-ended start. The members need to make sure there is no direct attack on anyone by taking their names. Always address the members of the group with some adjective like fellow mate. As a participant you should also make sure you don't always agree with one member of the group that will display that you are not adding points but just agreeing to one member. When the group diverts from the topic, an essential role of the facilitator comes into play wherein you politely ask the group to come back to the relevant subject. The following situation is a fish market; the group members should responsibly make sure that they avoid this as creating a fish market will negatively impact the entire group. When a member ends a group discussion, make sure to cover all the points, like giving the whole group discussion roadmap. Providing a road-map indicates that you have been actively listening throughout the discussion.

DRISHTIKON-PUBLIC SPEAKING

-Sahana S

Drishtikon – the management club of SCIT, conducted the 3rd Module in their series of educational modules. The concept of this Module covered Public Speaking. There were two speakers; the first was Mr. Abhranil Banerjee, Assistant Professor in St. Vincent Palotti College of Engineering & Technology. The second speaker was Ms. Ayushi Verma, MBA – ITBM 2021 –23 batch at SCIT. Mr. Banerjee began the session by giving insights into his personal experience in public speaking and stated that it is an experience that everyone should feel at least once. He talked about how everyone made mistakes initially and gave examples of famous speeches and Pandit Nehru's letters to his sisters, which talked about the mistakes he used to make while talking to the Britishers. He said there are two essential points to remember, the first is to have confidence, and the second is to prepare well and have good knowledge of the past related to the subject. He urged the students to be aware of body postures and understand the audience. The first step to convincing the audience is to convince oneself.Mr. Banerjee gave some tips that will help capture the audience from the beginning till the end. He said that even if something goes wrong in between, one should not panic and keep the show going on.

Ms. Ayushi Verma, the student speaker, added on the tips given and stated that confidence and perseverance is the key to becoming an excellent public speaker. She said that the more she participated, the more she improved herself, and it even helped her get better at negotiation skills. She advised us to start a speech on a moderate tone and on a positive note. She refereed students to join the Toastmasters Club, which will help them practice and improve their skills. The entire session was very insightful. Both speakers talked about the common problems people face in public speaking and the techniques to overcome them.
